THE BOMB-THROWER

The Scene of His Exploit Visited by Thousands.

INSPECTOR BYRNES' DEDUCTIONS.

The Head of the Dead Dynamiter Shown to Mr. Sage—Interesting Testimony by Capt. Henry Horne—Partly Corroborated.

New York, Dec. 6.—The Arcade building, at which the dynamite explosion occurred Friday, has been visited by thousands of people. Frederick Potter, agent for Orlando B. Potter, the owner of the building, has a force of workmen engaged in repairing the wrecked partitions and the floors, preparatory to making repairs. Building Inspector Brady says that the main walls of the building were unshaken, the principal damage being done to the inner walls.

Mr. Washington E. Conner said he called on Mr. Russell Sage yesterday morning at his house and found him looking quite bright and cheerful. He will be all right again in a few days. "I think there is no truth in the rumor that any bonds or securities were either lost by Mr. Sage or myself," said Mr. Conner. "What papers were scattered on the floors were picked up and we are all right. We won't lose a dollar save by the destruction of the office and furniture."

Police Inspector Byrnes, after visiting the scene yesterday morning, said that the man who threw the bomb evidently knew Mr. Sage by sight, and waited for him to come out of the private office before he advanced to the window and threw down his business.

A man, whose name the inspector would not reveal, went into Mr. Sage's office two minutes before the explosion, on business. He saw the man sitting there, evidently waiting for some one. This man took his seat behind the stranger, to await his turn at the window. The stranger kept his seat for ten minutes and then the waiting business man, becoming impatient, advanced to the window, transacted his business and went away leaving Wilson sitting in the outer office. The dynamiter kept his seat until Mr. Sage came out of his private office. From his seat the man Wilson could see Mr. Sage through the little window. He at once got up and, advancing to the window, handed a card with the name "H. D. Wilson" on it to Clark Norton, sitting at the same time. "Give that to Mr. Sage. I want to see him about some bonds for Mr. Rockefeller," Mr. Norton handed the card to Mr. Sage who acknowledged it with a nod. "What happened afterwards," was told in the United Press dispatch of Friday.

Mr. Byrnes said that Mr. Sage was not in the least excited when he heard of the dynamite explosion. He came up to his room last night. He sat up in bed, looked at the head critically and said: "That is the man. I remember the face well." Mr. Sage showed up in the morning, looking as usual, and the gas lights in the room were all turned up and the face could be plainly seen. The head was in the room before Mr. Sage was told what he was to see. No one in the house moved to the balcony, excepting Mr. Byrnes and Mr. Munn, when it was brought in. The head of the bomb-thrower, which is now at the morgue, will be held for identification. Inspector Byrnes thinks if persons who know any answer to the description of the man will go and see the head, in that way, the identity of the man may be established. Persons who know of any such man, raising are also requested to take a look at the head. Inspector Byrnes told the United Press reporter that Mr. Sage had never spoken to him about the threatening letters he had received from Walsh. He had but little to say about the identity of the dynamiter.

Inspector Byrnes and several detectives have been searching during the day for every scrap of the dead man's effects, with a hope that from some of them a tangible clue might be obtained. All the effects were found, but whether or not a clue accompanied them the inspector will not say. These articles, in the opinion of the detectives, undoubtedly belonged to the dynamiter. A silk hat with a glazed sweat band under which were stamped the letters "M. C." and the figures "1888-89." In the breast pocket of the overcoat was found a black seal pocketbook containing a $10 bill and two watch keys. In the overcoat pocket were also two pairs of dogskin gloves. No. 7c. One pair was quite new; the other was worn. The detectives also found a piece of shell of the bomb in the ceiling. It was of very thin sheet iron, three inches long by one inch wide. One of its edges was perforated.

Deputy Coroner Jenkins made an autopsy on the head of the man yesterday. An extravasation of blood was found on the left side of the brain, caused by concussion.

The brain was put in Mueller's fluid, a solution of bicarbonate of potash, and the head in Wicksteiner's fluid. Doctors Edmund C. Spitzka, London Carter Gray and Dunham will assist in making a preliminary examination of the brain. The two jars containing the head and brain were taken to the Carnegie laboratory, 27 West Madison street. Before the head was cut open photographs were taken of it in three different positions—a front view, three-quarter view, and a side view, showing the profile.

It will take several weeks to harden the brain sufficiently to make a microscopic examination. The bismuth solution will be applied every day. The operation of cutting the brain open will be given a thorough examination under a powerful microscope, and the man's mental condition ascertained. The head can

THE NEW CONGRESS.

Interesting Facts About the National Legislature

TO-DAY ASSEMBLED IN WASHINGTON.

New Legislation in the Senate—Important Confirmations—An Army of New Members in the House—The Speaker's Herculean Task.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 7.—The legislative outlook for the fifty-second congress, in the opinion of leading men in both houses, is not clearly defined. There are no continuing subjects which either house can take up of itself and pass to completion. This being a new congress, all legislation must originate de novo. A number of important measures passed by the last house were pending in the senate when it adjourned. Amongst them were the elections or force bill, a bankruptcy bill, the pure food bill and others. There is no probability of an attempt to revive the election bill during the next congress. It is likely that the desirability of adopting some national system of regulating bankruptcy may engage the attention of the senate committee on commerce.

Senator Chandler, of New York, will endeavor to press his pure food bill as a substitute for the land bill. Senator Cullum has some amendments to the interstate commerce bill to propose. The bill of Senator Nelson, of New York, to amend the act of 1887, relating to the McKinley tariff act in the progress of a committee of the senate. The bill of the investigation has been actively brought to the front it might precipitate a tariff debate in the senate. There is a disposition, however, on the part of leading senators to both parties to leave the initiative tariff fight in the house, where it belongs, and not to force the fighting in the senate on any of the issues which will enter into the presidential contest of next year.

There is a very large interest in the coming session will be centered in the executive session. Interesting information is expected in regard to our relations with China. It is expected that the fact that at the present time, our relations with that country have assumed a phase which might have endangered or which still endangers peace, the facts will be laid before the senate as by public message or by confidential communication, in either case to be considered in executive session. It is thought that not all the reciprocity agreements which have been negotiated by Spain and Spanish-American countries under the reciprocity clauses of the McKinley bill can come under that clause. Some of them present points requiring concurrent action by the senate.

There is a feeling of gravity of the situation in China may impose upon the United States the necessity of taking action for the protection of American interests in that country.

Dom Pedro's Death Causes Grief and Sorrow in Brazil.

LONDON DIVORCE COURT SCANDALS.

How the Attempted Assassination of Russell Sage is Regarded Abroad—Mr. Gladstone Leaves Hawarden—Germany at the World's Fair.

Dom Pedro's Death Causes Grief in Brazil.

LONDON, Dec. 6.—A Rio de Janeiro dispatch says that the news of Dom Pedro's death was received with sincere grief by the Brazilians. But while all unite in regret for the former emperor, there is a deep and strong determination that the empire shall never be revived. Should the Princess Isabella and the Count D'Eu make and persist in any demand for the imperial succession, the result will probably be the confiscation of all the property of the imperial family in Brazil. This would be a severe loss to the princess and her husband, who have little else to depend on, and may make the Count D'Eu hesitate. The count is cordially invited to Brazil, and it would be dangerous for him to attempt to return.

A FEAT OF SCANDAL.

The feast of divorce court scandal which Londoners have been furnished with during the past week or so does not seem to have satisfied the appetites of sensation lovers, and the crowds attending the St. John case yesterday were even greater than those which looked to listen to the developments in the Russell suit. The increased interest manifested is due to the greater boldness with which the indecent details are handled. In the Russell case there was some pretense of telling the unpleasant features of the scandal, which nevertheless were plainly revealed by hint and innuendo. In the St. John trial, reserve is thrown aside, and spades are called spades without hesitation. It is a fact that the newspapers which depicted most earnestly the "morbid curiosity" shown by the public in such trials are the ones which have published the details more fully upon which this "morbid curiosity" feeds. The fact that so much interest is taken in the St. John case is instructive, as showing that the people who congregate to hear the testimony in such trials do so from simple love of indecency, and are not attracted by the incident that the parties are members of high society, for the St. John and Marjorie and Cohen are people of a very high consequence, and

A LEPER LEAVES PEORIA.

A Chinese laundryman named Sun Hong, who has been a good business man in Peoria, was discovered by some itinerant acquainted with the symptoms of the disease to be a leper. The word was circulated and Hong shipped out before he could be detained, and is supposed to have gone to Chicago. These facts have caused much excitement among his customers, who are now turning their garments, and the authorities propose to tear down the building he did business in. Other Chinamen say they know he was a leper.

A NATIONAL EVENT.

The holding of the World's Fair in a city scarcely fifty years old will be a remarkable event, but whether it will really benefit the nation as much as the discovery of the Restorative Nervine by Dr. Franklin Miles is doubtful. It is just what the nation needs to cure their excessive nervousness, dyspepsia, headache, dizziness, sleeplessness, neuritis, nervous debility, dullness, constipation, indigestion, and all the ills that afflict the human race. ## THE WIDOW OBJECTED

Unusual Scene at the Union Depot About a Corpse.

When D. D. Goewey came to Decatur Saturday evening from Pittsburgh, Pa., to take charge of the body of his brother, G. W. Goewey, the young man, who, under the name of Harry Moore, was accidentally killed in the Washburn yards Friday night, he met the young widow and arranged with her to go east with the remains. She consented to go along, but at the last moment she made a scene at the Union depot which was wholly unexpected. The party was to have gone east at 10:15 Saturday night, but the start was delayed until Sunday at 11:15 a. m. All arrangements had been completed. The body was in the box on the platform truck ready to be placed in the car. The brother had not arrived, but the widow was there. She said that it should be kept in Decatur and buried here, and she gave orders to the undertaker to that effect. She wanted the body taken up town at once and put into another coffin. It was in the midst of the confusion that Mr. Goewey arrived and countermanded all orders. He clearly and firmly informed his sister-in-law that as she had once given her consent for the shipment of the body, that all bills had been paid, and that all arrangements had been completed, the body would go to Pittsburgh, and that if she wanted to go along there was plenty of room on the train and a pass for her. Still the widow objected, and attempted to interfere with the movement of the truck which was then being pushed toward the train. The widow was giving orders to stop the truck and the brother urged the express man to go right along, and in a few moments the body was placed in the car. ## DEATH OF MRS. J. F. ECKELS

She Passes Away Peacefully Into the Unknown Beyond.

Sunday night at 11:30 o'clock in this city at her home, No. 546 West William street, Anna G. Eckels, wife of Mr. J. F. Eckels, quietly, peacefully, tranquilly passed from death unto life. Her death was not unexpected, as the deceased had been failing in health for several months past. In February, 1909, the deceased was taken sick of typhoid fever, and although she became better for awhile she never fully shook off the illness and she gradually grew worse until she contracted the disease which caused her demise. Twice did she and her relatives take trips to Danville in the hope that the change might benefit her, and it was at the time of the last visit that the deceased realized her condition and requested that she be brought home where she might be surrounded by her family and her attentive and loving husband and relatives.

Anna Cordelia Eckels was 39 years of age at the time of her death. She was born in Dillsburg, Pa. Her parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Hurst, soon afterward moved to Decatur to reside. At the age of 15 she united with the Presbyterian church under the pastorate of Rev. Dr. Marquis. The family a few years later moved back to Pennsylvania, where June 2, 1876, she was united in marriage to John F. Eckels. Mr. and Mrs. Eckels came to Decatur the same year, where they have since resided. To the couple six children were born: Edwin H., Robbie, Paul, Ralph, Beulah and George M.

The deceased was a leading member of the First Presbyterian church, and always took a leading part in the work of the congregation. To her many warm friends she will be remembered as the highest type of American Christian womanhood. Her womanly disposition and warm, generous nature have left an impression among her friends which cannot be removed. Her husband and family have the sympathy of a host of friends and acquaintances in their great bereavement. Mrs. E. W. Eckels, mother of the deceased, was present at the death of her daughter. C. M. Hurst, of this city, is a brother of the deceased. Her father will probably arrive from Pennsylvania this evening.

The funeral services will be held at the residence Wednesday afternoon, Dr. W. H. Penhaligon, of the First Presbyterian church, conducting the service.

ARRIVALS FROM DECATUR

Nearly 100 People Landed in Decatur Sunday Afternoon.

Quite an excursion party from Eastern Prussia arrived in Decatur Sunday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock over the Wabash train. There were 20 families in the delegation, people of all ages and sizes, representing nearly 100 persons. They came across the Atlantic in the steamship America, North German Lloyd line, and arrived in Decatur three days later. They were booked to get here on Dec. 3rd, but owing to delays on the long journey did not arrive until Dec. 6th, which was doing very well considering the distance traveled.

The fresh arrivals are not all strangers in Decatur, they are relatives and friends at the depot, sisters, brothers, sons and daughters who had preceded them to America. They had prospered in this country, they had never hoped or expected in the old country, and because of steady employment at good wages, they were enabled to save money to send for relatives and friends. The scene at the depot when the Germans got off the train was like many others of a similar character witnessed on the platform. There were shouts and cries and tears of joy, coupled with shaking hands all around. And then came the scramble for baggage and bags, boxes and packages. It took a good while to get the packages separated and identified, and then the long procession was formed and the party, clad in the old garments of the old country, moved off north and east of the depot. They will find homes and employment in a short time.

BROKE OUT OF JAIL.
Charles White, Wanted in Decatur, Arrested in Springfield.

Sunday Charles White was located and arrested at Springfield on information furnished by Marshall Mason. Commenting on the arrest, the Springfield Journal of today says:

Charles White was arrested here yesterday on a charge of burglary and larceny. He is wanted in Decatur on the charges, and Chief of Police W. W. Mason, of that place, will arrive here for the prisoner this morning. Officers Sheehan and Marks arrested White on a description furnished them by the Decatur authorities. It is claimed that he stole an overcoat and other clothing, but none of the stolen articles were found. White and his wife were at Whiteside's boarding house in East Adams street, when he was arrested. His wife is only about 19 years of age, and is rather pretty. They claim Louisville, Ky., as their home.

White is a fat, and was wearing jumping jacks on the street Saturday night. Captain Bailey was sent to Springfield this morning to bring White to Decatur, but when he arrived at the capital he was informed that during last night White broke out of jail and was still at liberty.

It was quite a surprise party for Bailey, who did not anticipate such an experience. Marshall Mason received word by telephone. White was wanted for stealing a suit of clothes, an overcoat and some money from the home of B. F. Price, where he boarded while he sold the prize fighting jumping jacks in Decatur. There are no particulars as to the manner of White's escape from jail. Captain Bailey will return home to-night.

They Cleared $550.
The ladies who had charge of the arrangements of the three days Baptist fair and festival, which was held in the court room last week from Thursday afternoon until Saturday at the close of the dinner hour, may well congratulate themselves on the success of the occasion. The receipts amounted to $550 and the expenses will not run over $100, leaving them a balance of $450, to be appropriated for church purposes. The fair was liberally and deservedly patronized.

Major Crocker is Dead.
Arthur Crocker died Sunday morning at his home in Taylorville, after a brief illness. The deceased was a major of the 5th Regiment, Illinois National Guard, and lieutenant-colonel of the 2nd Regiment, Uniform Rank, Knights of Pythias. This morning Major F. P. Wells, Capt. W. F. Calladay and Lieutenant J. F. Cassell and Arthur Gallagher, of Company H, this city, left for Taylorville to attend the funeral.

Major Crocker was one of the most popular, most active and most influential young Republicans in this section. His career in the Illinois National Guard, Congressional district, and numbered as his warm friends all who had the pleasure of his acquaintance. He had served for years as chairman of the Republican County Central Committee of Christian county, and through his zeal and intelligent activity kept the party forces in that county thoroughly organized all the time. He was a member from the first ward of Taylorville and postmaster of that city, where he had a good business. His death is a serious loss to the Republican party and to the Illinois National Guard, with which he had been actively identified since 1876.

We Received
Late Saturday afternoon four more large cases of those Haviland China Dinner Sets, Chocolate Sets and China Pieces. Don't let yourself be lured by one chance to buy these fine goods less than before been offered here. We don't put in a lot of small pieces to make the number of pieces sound large, but our sets have soap tureens, soup plates and all, the expensive covered dishes. Remember, one covered dish costs several times as much as 12 independent butters, for instance. Ladies who look around buy ours every time. There will not be a set of these in the house by next Saturday night, if they go like they have this last week. Come in and see them.
